人民银行—国际货币基金组织高级别研讨会

绿色金融和气候政策

日 程

4 月 15–16 日（北京时间）

气候变化对经济和金融稳定构成了根本性风险。但应对气候变化也为在关键时刻重振增长、创造新的就业机会和确保绿色复苏提供了机会。

气候变化给中央银行、货币政策以及金融稳定带来了挑战。金融行业一方面将受到气候变化的影响，另一方面也会对强有力的适应和减缓气候变化的政策起到推动作用。中央银行和金融监管机构可通过风险评估、压力测试及在绿色投融资领域建立透明的监管框架而发挥重要作用。未来几十年，金融部门对气候变化政策的贡献将取决于金融机构和投资者在管理气候变化风险、支持可持续和责任投资方面的能力和意愿。

全球性的挑战需要全球性的解决方案。本次研讨会将回顾发展绿色金融的国际经验，探讨中央银行和金融监管机构的作用，以及金融机构和投资者的作用。更广泛地，与会者还将讨论亚洲区域减缓和适应气候变化的策略，中国在2060年实现碳中和的气候和经济规划，中国同其他国家的气候政策异同，以及为避免气候危机所需的全球气候政策协调。

中国人民银行行长易纲和国际货币基金组织总裁格奥尔基耶娃将为本次研讨会致开幕词。本次会议将汇聚学术界、中国金融机构、政府机构以及大约四十家国际机构（主要是国际金融机构和各国央行）在气候政策和绿色金融领域的权威专家和从业者。

本次会议仅限受邀人士参加。会后将出版一本电子书，涵盖会议演讲内容和简要总结。

High-Level Seminar

People's Bank of China and International Monetary Fund

Green Finance and Climate Policy

Agenda

April 15-16 (Times are Beijing time zone)

Climate change poses a fundamental risk to economic and financial stability. But tackling climate change also provides an opportunity to reinvigorate growth, create new jobs, and secure a green recovery at a critical moment.

Climate change poses challenges for central banks, for monetary policy, and for financial stability. The financial industry will both be affected by climate change and help facilitate strong adaptation and mitigation policies. Here, central banks and financial supervisors can play a crucial role—including by assessing risks, stress testing, and establishing transparent regulatory frameworks around the financing of “green” investment. The contribution of the financial sector to climate change policies in the next decades will depend on the willingness and ability of financial institutions and investors to incorporate climate change risk and support sustainable and responsible investment.

Global challenge invites global solutions. This seminar will review international experience on green finance and discuss the role of central banks and financial regulators, as well as the role of financial institutions and investors. More broadly, seminar participants will also discuss climate mitigation and adaptation strategies in the Asian region, China’s climate and economic plans to achieve carbon neutrality by 2060, differences and similarities between China’s climate policies and those in other countries, and global climate policy coordination efforts to avert a climate crisis.

PBC Governor Yi Gang and IMF Managing Director Kristalina Georgieva will deliver opening remarks for the seminar. The event will bring together leading experts and practitioners in climate policy and green finance from academia, Chinese financial institutions, and government agencies, as well as around 40 international institutions mainly financial institutions and central banks.

The seminar is by invitation only. Following the event, we will publish an e-book with presentations and short summaries.
